It Blooms at Night Only!

When Mrs. Leslie Orford, 980 Hacienda, Campbell, handblocked a luncheon set after a visit to the Hawaiian Islands in 1947, she used the night-blooming Cereus as a design. But she had no thought at that time that the real flower would ever bloom in her garden in Campbell.

Last week, however, the night-blooming Cereus that the Orfords planted five years ago in their garden, burst into bloom.

The exotic flower started to open, Orford reported, at 6 p.m. and at 8 o'clock was fully opened. The Orfords, excited over Mother Nature's doing, called The Campbell Press to record the rare event, and the above photo was taken at 9 p.m.

The flower was closed by 6 p.m. the next day, Orford reported.

Planners Name Area Where 'CM' Zone Goes

Battle lines on the "CM" front were clearly drawn this week.

Preliminary skirmishes as to where the controversial "Controlled Manufacturing Zone" will be applied, once it is adopted by the City of Campbell, came to an abrupt end Tuesday night when officially and publicly for the first time a proposed "CM" area was designated by the Planning Commission.

In an unprecedented move, an abbreviated Commission (three members were absent) served notice that it is the intent of the Planners to place Campbell's entire industrial park in "CM". The area extends from Camden Ave. on the north, to the south city limits (past the southern leg of E. Parr Ave.), and between the S.P. railroad and the Los Gatos Creek.

Resolution of Intent

With vice-chairman Les Harmon in the chair in the absence of Chairman Sam O'Brien, the Commission directed Nestor Barrett, planning consultant to prepare a "Resolution of Intent" for the next meeting, August 6. The purpose of the resolution would be to notify the City Council that it was the intent of the Commission to recommend that the proposed "CM" zone should apply to all that area that was recently annexed to the City in the industrial park. Annexations 1956-5-7-8-9 and 1957-2 were specified as being included; approximately 190 acres.

Before the Planners took their action, however, it was clearly evident from the objections fired from the floor that many property owners in the designated area opposed the highly restrictive "CM" zoning for their area.

Petition Read

In an attempt to dissuade the Planners from their action and to show the attitude of the property owners concerned, the opponents to "CM" zoning cited the petition to the Commission that had been filed on June 3 by a majority of the property owners in the northern half of the industrial park. The petition requested that the north section (from the north leg of E. Parr Avenue) be zoned M-1-S (light manufacturing with no restrictions as to lot size.

The petition was then read by the Chairman Harmon and accepted for the record as a positive request by the property owners . It had previously been considered as a protest against potential "CM" zoning and Chairman O'Brien had ruled that it would be discussed when the zoning hearings would be held.

Beatty Opposes

Instrumental in bringing the status of the petition to the fore was Douglas Beatty, in his dual role of a representative of Western Gravel and president of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce. Beatty was the principal spokesman for the disgruntled property owners at the meeting.

Others voicing their opposition to the restrictions that would be imposed by "CM" zoning included, R.L. Townsend, H.J.F. Ludeman, Jack Craig, and C. J. Falcone.

Beatty told the Commission that he felt that the City had a moral obligation to those who have invested money in the area on the understanding that it would be zonded M-1-S and that his firm (Western Gravel) had been instrumental in bringing the area into the City.

He said that in his capacity as president of the Chamber of Commerce he had learned that a number of industries had "backed out" from locating here when they discovered that the

What's in a Name?

If you want to change the name of the street on which you live, how would you go about it?

Because the problem has not come up since the city was incorporated, no precedent has been established for it.

To remedy this situation, the City Council directed City Attorney Joseph Bonacina and Planning Consultant Nestor Barrett to find out how it can be done.

The matter was brought to the Council's attention Monday when O. C. Engdol of the Engdol Construction Co., developers of Latimer Park subdivisions, told the City Fathers that he wished something could be done about the names given the streets in the tract by the original subdivider, who must have had a soft spot for islands of the Pacific.

Engdol ticked off the names of Guam, Saipan, Tinian and Agana as the ones he was most unhappy about.

The City Dads promised him that as soon as they found out how it would be done, they would let him know.

Long-Awaited

Commission Promises Street Plan For Industrial Park by August 6

Without fail the City Planners promised to have the long awaited master street plan for the new industrial park area ready by their next meeting, August 6.

On the motion of Commissioner Homer Hyde, they directed Planning Consultant Nestor Barrett on Tuesday night to complete the job by that time.

The absence of a street plan has been the main factor in delaying action on four requests for variances for building in the area and for voting other improvements that are necessary before the industrial park can be developed.

Four variances for buildings in the area have already been postponed until the August 6 meeting and on Tuesday still another, that of Floyd B. Day at 805 Dell Ave., was put over until then.

The need of a street plan was urged by Steve Goodman, manager of the Sanitation District No. 4, who had also appeared on Monday before the City Council requesting expediency in the matter.

Commissioner Hyde told Goodman that he was embarrassed by the failure of the Commission to have a plan ready but he assured him that it would be on hand at the "big meeting" on August 6.

The Commission postponed action also until August 6 on the request of Commissioner Richard Salice for a zone change for property on W. Rincon Ave. as one of the members, would not be able to act on his own request. Salice is requesting to change the zone from single family residential to two-family units.

The Commission gave the final approval to the plans of Philip Sondeno to construct multiple-dwellings at Sunberry Drive and Kamson Way.

Residents of the Sunberry Dr. area had objected originally to the plans but a compromise had been worked out between Sondeno and them with the Commission as a semi-offical mediator. Because of a slight change from the original "compromise" the Planners had delayed final action until they were assured of no objections from the residents.

J. D. Russell, 352 Sunberry, headed a delegation of Sunberry residents and told the Commission there were no objections to the final plans. Russell also commended both the Planners and Sondeno for their cooperation in the matter. "Everyone is happy on the street," he added.

In the final action of the evening, Acting Chairman Les Harmon appointed Commissioners Hyde, Kenneth Priestley and himself to survey the area as to possibility of the locations of two new firehouses for the City of Campbell and to report by August 12.

... Fence Troubles

Nelson Bros. Must Erect Fence on All Four Sides

By a vote of 4 to 1 (Councilman Myron Fairchild dissenting) the City Council on Monday ordered Nelson Bros. Trucking to "wholly enclose" their operation as provided by city ordinance.

Thus the final curtain was rung down on the local whodunit. "The Case of the Missing Fence".

The action of the Council was a direct result of objections to the trucking firm's operation as filed by residents adjacent to it. The residents claimed that the trucking firm had promised that a fence would be erected but it had not been forthcoming. They also claimed that the trucking firm was a public nuisance and created a traffic hazard and its yard was unkept.

Subsequent investigations by city officials, cleared the firm of the public nuisance charge but it was revealed that the ordinance did require that the operations be enclosed either by fence or hedge.

However, Herman J. Mager, counsel for the Nelson Bros. at a previous meeting, requested that the fence be the railroad sidET the fence be placed only on three sides as it was felt that it would serve no purpose on the railroad side. The Council delayed final action until the members could look over the property.

At Monday's meeting, Councilman Richard Morton made the motion to "wholly enclose". He admitted that City Attorney Joseph Bonacina had ruled that the ordinance would allow the Council to deviate because of circumstances but he felt that it would set a dangerious precedent to do so.

Councilman Fairchild opposed the motion and claimed that a fence on the railroad side would serve no purpose.

For the first time since the fence hassle started the residents of the area were represented by counsel. Norman Stoner, local and San Jose attorney, told the Council that he represented 51 people living on Page, Hawthorne and Patio streets.

Stoner aroused the ire of Mor-

Woodshop Class Proves Popular

One of the activities that has been added this summer for the first time to the recreational program of the Campbell High School District that is proving popular with both girls and boys is woodshop.

Six classes are conducted at the Campbell Grammar School Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. with Marcel (Bud) Jolimay as instructor.

Three girls are among the 26 enrolled in the classes limited to 6th, 7th and 8th grade students. Many useful products are being turned out by the boys and girls, ranging from the ever-popular pump lamp to an 8-foot sailing pram, an ambitious project of Phil Rideout of the class.

Water skis are also proving popular project, with four pair being turned out.

The students purchase their own materials and use school equipment under the direction of Jolimay, who also instructs in woodshop during regular school year.

Council Gives First Reading to New Zone

Campbell's controversial "Controlled Manufacturing Zoning" ordinance moved a step nearer adoption Monday when the City Council gave the "first reading" to the ordinance.

The reading was the concluding act to the hectic Council meeting, one of the longest in local history.

But a weary and harassed City Council gamely and patiently stuck it out to the very last syllable. Mayor John M. Chargin did the reading "honors", a task ordinarily assigned to City Clerk Dorothy Trevethan.

It was after midnight when the mayor (rated as the fastest reader in the official city family) took over and grimly but swiftly read aloud the entire subject matter of the highly restrictive ordinance.

But long before Chargin had given his reading performance, the Council had learned that reconciling the differences that exist among all the divergent forces involved in the development of Campbell's new industrial park at the sounthern city limits is going to prove a complicated and arduous (if not almost hopeless) task.

Tied in with development of the area is the proposed and controversial "Controlled Manufacturing Zone" which officially came before the Council Monday for the first time. The ordinance when adopted will make it possible for the city to place strict controls on areas where the new zone is applied.

It Goes Where?

Although it was emphasized that the adding of this new type of zoning to the City's zoning ordinance did not necessarily pinpoint where it would go, all studies and reports have indicated that the new restrictions have been patterned for the new industrial park area, in the Dell Ave., East Parr, and Sunny Oaks sections.

To complicate matters even further, a number of industrial property owners in the area have already applied to the Planning Commission for variances in order to build industrial-type structures. The Commission has held up action on the variances until a master street plan has been drafted.

Taxes Patience

Lack of such a street plan plus the threat of possible "CM" zoning for the area has taxed the patience of a number of property owners and they voiced their impatience at the Council meeting Monday.

R. L. Townsend, president of Tweco Products and owner of property on Dell Ave. where his company desires to erect a warehouse, touched off the heated discussion on the various problems affecting the industrial park when he asked that welding operations as pertaining to metal products be allowed in the area. The "CM" ordinance as drafted did not specify that welding was o.k.

Townsend displayed a welded hand-truck, made by one of his affiliated companies, to illistrate his point. His graphic presentation followed the explanation by Nestor Barrett, planning consultant, who described the main points of the "CM" ordinance.

In presenting the case for "CM", Barrett mentioned that it satisfied the need for a type of zoning that was more restrictive than the present M-1-S (light manufacturing). He explained that off-street parking, setbacks, side-yards, and height of buildings were all regulated. All buildings, he pointed out, must be of masonry construction and only 40 per cent of the land could be covered by structures.

Performance standards such as noise, vibration, smoke, electrical disturbances and odors were also included, he explained.

Two-Acre Minimum

He admitted that the report of the industrial committee had recommended that lot sizes be limited to two-acre minimums but explained that a special section of the proposed ordinance made it possible to regulate the lot sizes in existing zones as well as in "CM".

He said there had been no opposition to the ordinance when it was presented before the Planning Commission but he was challenged on this point by a property owner present.

H.J.F. Ludeman, too, claimed that the reason there was no opposition was because no one knew about the special acreage-limitation section until the night of hearing before the Planners.

The acreage limitation clause has also been opposed by other property owners from the industrial park section. Voicing his objection at the meeting was Oleg A. Lubeckis, who has applied for a variance in order to build on East Parr Ave.

Lubeckis also agreed with Townsend's point that welding operations should not be excluded from the uses allowed in "CM".

Welding O.K.

Townsend's graphic demonstration with his handtruck apparently proved effective, for the Council agreed to make the changes in the specifications.

The Council held firm, however, on another point: all operations in "CM" will be of a wholesale nature with the exception of a restaurant. Townsend had suggested that a service station be permitted as well as a restaurant as a service to the potential employees.

Crossing Status Creates Problem In Area Planning

Should the other improvements (sewers, streets, water) be carried out for Campbell's industrial park even if the authority for a railroad crossing at Dell Ave., providing access to Winchester Road, is not forthcoming from the Public Utilities Commission?

This was the perplexing question that faced both property owners and the City Council on Monday night.

The Council finally agreed to start engineering work on the improvement projects if a majority of the property owners who have previously petitioned to form an improvement district to obtain all the needed services (including a railroad crossing) agree to go ahead regardless of the status of the crossing.

Steve Goodman, manager of Sanitation District No. 4. brought he matter to a head at the meeting in pleading for expediency in getting action on the improvement district petition. Sanitation District No. 4 plans to build a corporation yard and office in the industrial park

Plans for the district's buildings are the only ones that have been given approval by the Planning Commission. All other potential builders are awaiting action on their applications.

The Planners have indicated that before approval can be given a master street plan for the area must first be adopted.

Application for a railroad crossing at Dell Ave. to the Public Utilities Commission must also await the street plan.

Property owners present at the meeting appeared divided as to whether they would go ahead with the other improvements while waiting for the crossing approval.

Councilman Richard Morton felt that the City should have some guarantee of the attitude of the people before authorizing highly restrictive "CM" might be applied. Beatty added that in his opinion the "S" approval by the Commission on proposed plans for industries in a M-1-S zone would keep out undesirable industries.

Defends Action

Harmon defended the action of the Commission and said, in his opinion that the entire City of Campbell would benefit in the future, if the Controlled Manufacturing Zone was put in effect in the area. In answer to the charge that the Commission was being unfair to the present property owners, Harmon said that the entire city's welfare and interest must be considered by the Planners and not just a few, even if they happen to be interested property owners.

Although all the discussion, pro and con, was carried on a friendly basis, all indications point to a fierce battle when public hearings are held on the zoning questions, dates of which will be set later.

A LOT OF HELLOS . . . It was quite an occasion when the Pacific Telephone installed the 11,000th phone in Campbell marking the 60th anniversary of the local exchange. There were less than 1000 phones in town as late as 1942. The 11,000th phone was installed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cooke, 28 Peter Drive, Campbell. The Cooke's with their two children, Carol and Ronald, were recently transferred here from Richland, Wash., by General Electric where he is procedure manager. Pictured during the installation from left to right are, Al Berryessa, telephone company foreman; Bob McSwigger, installer; Mrs. Cooke and John Ismand, telephone company manager.

Campbell Marks 60th Anniversary Of Exchange with 11,000th Phone

Campbell marked a birthday in its phone service recently.

The community's telephone exchange, founded in 1897, was 60 years old on July 1.

Historical files are vague as to the exchange's early history, said Pacific Telephone manager, John Imsand.

"For it's only in the past five years that telephone usage has really boomed in Campbell," he noted.

"As late as 1942, when dial service was established here, there were still fewer than 1,000 telephones, compared with more than 11,000 today."

The exchange was not without its early moments of excitement, however.

For instance, there was the time in 1926 when the telephone helped to capture some bank robbers.

"A local butcher, the late Bert Gilson, spotted the holdup attempt in progress and called the telephone office. Operator Martha Curran, on duty at the time, called the sheriff's office in San Jose and then alerted Campbell business establishments where she knew there would be groups of men working.

The would-be bandits spotted men pouring out of what must have seemed to be every building in town. They fled, with no money.

One of the robbers was shot. The others escaped but were captured a short while later.

"We don't have any shooting today," said Ismand, "but the telephone story here is still a pretty exciting one."

"We added nearly 3,000 phones here in 1956—the greatest number in our history—and spent more than $500,000 to keep up with Campbell's demand for phone service.

"This is a growing area.

Wants Job Done

Perturbed over the delay in completing the final work on the Hamilton Ave. widening project, the City Council on Monday directed City Engineer Mark Thomas to inform the Leo F. Piazza Co., that there would be no extension as requested by the firm to the time set to finish the job.

Completion date had been set for last Friday.

The ire of the Council was aroused because of the complaints registered by many residents over the gaping ditch that has been left open awaiting the final work on the street.

Residents have also complained about the dust and dirt that is being blown into their homes from the unfinished job.

Mobile Blood Unit Here Monday

Harry Gerin, chairman of the blood drive being sponsored by the Lions Club, announced the Red Cross mobile blood unit will be in front of Campbell High School from 4 to 6 p.m. Monday, July 29, for the convenience of donors.

Those wishing to donate blood can go direct to the unit Monday, or make an appointment. Cards for appointments can be obtained from Gerin, Schoenberger Shell Station, the fire department, or police department.

Lion members will provide transportation to and from the blood unit for anyone wanting a ride. Arrangements can be made by calling Gerin, FR 8-3616..

on when he implied that economic pressure had bee brought to bear on people involved in the controversey. He said that he felt that both "big industry" and residents should be treated alike by the Council.

Mager, the Nelson's attorney, showed pictures of the property and claimed that a fence on the railroad side was worthless. He said he resented the statement of Stoner that Nelson Bros. was "big industry" and was exerting pressure.

The 4-1 vote came after both counsels had their say.

LAW IN ACTION

RULES OF TRIALS

As a juror, you must apply the law the judge gives you to the facts as you find them at the trial.

Where do judges get the law to decide the legal questions arising in a lawsuit? In three places: (1) federal and state constitutions; (2) federal and state statutes, local ordinances, and rules of administrative agencies, and (3) judicial decisions and legal writings.

These public statements of the law bind judges and juries and should help them decide the questions they face in a trial. Otherwise they could set up personal standards of rights and duties to decide each case.

Since courts must try cases on recognized public standards of right and wrong, we call ours a goverment of law and not of man.

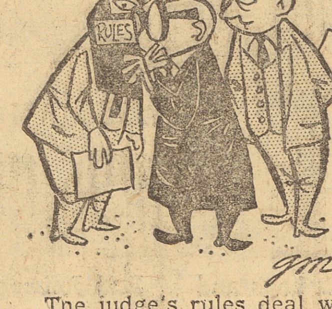
Judges have the duty of knowing which of the statements of law to apply to the facts of a lawsuit. Jurors should accept the law as the judge gives it to them.

So also with rules governing how a court should try a case: They set out what the "complaint" and "answer" must state, in what order the parties may present evidence, what evidence is proper, in what order lawyers may argue, what is permissible argument.

Without these rules no one could foresee what would happen during a lawsuit. No one could prepare properly for the trial or know what he could say or do.

Such a situation would bring confusion and injustice.

The judge calls the jurors' attention to these rules as he conducts the trial, ruling on the admission of evidence—and sometimes on various motions.



The judge's rules deal with questions of law—not of fact. As a juror, do not question these rulings nor infer anything from them for or against either side.

Goodman offered to find out the sentimement, and if a favorable report is received, the City Council will authorize the City Engineer Mark Thomas to proceed with the engineering work.

Two property owners present at the meeting, R. L. Townsend and H.J.F. Ludeman, said the crossing was included in "a package deal" and that it should continue that way.

Warren Brown and Jack Craig, two other potential industrialists, throught that a "calculated risk" should be taken to get the "ball rolling" while two others, Doug Beatty, of Western Gravel, and Pete Stewart expressed no opinions on the matter.

Health Department Reports

Early Summer Flu Epidemic Claims 1946 Cases Throughout California

By Capitol News Service

A wave of outbreaks of influenza-like illnesses swept through California in late June and early July, resulting in at least 1946 cases in specific checks, the state Department of Public Health reported.

The Department classed the outbreaks as "acute febrile respiratory disease" and, in at least one case said it was indistinguishable from the Far East strain of influenza virus.

No fatalities resulted from flu during the last two weeks in July, although there were 45 deaths resulting from pneumonia, as compared to 33 for the same period of 1956.

The most widely noted, alhough not the largest outbreak, was that of 225 girls among the 391 attending Girls State in nearby Davis. This was the outbreak that was classed as the Asiatic strain. The illness among the girls was characterized by an abrupt onset of headache, sore throat, fevers ranging from 101 to 104 degrees and muscular aching. Symptoms subsided in 24 to 48 hours.

The largest outbreak occurred among a group of 4,200 Naval recruits in San Diego. During an eight-day period, 920 men were admitted to sick bay with an illness later identified as "Far Eastern like strains of influenza virus."

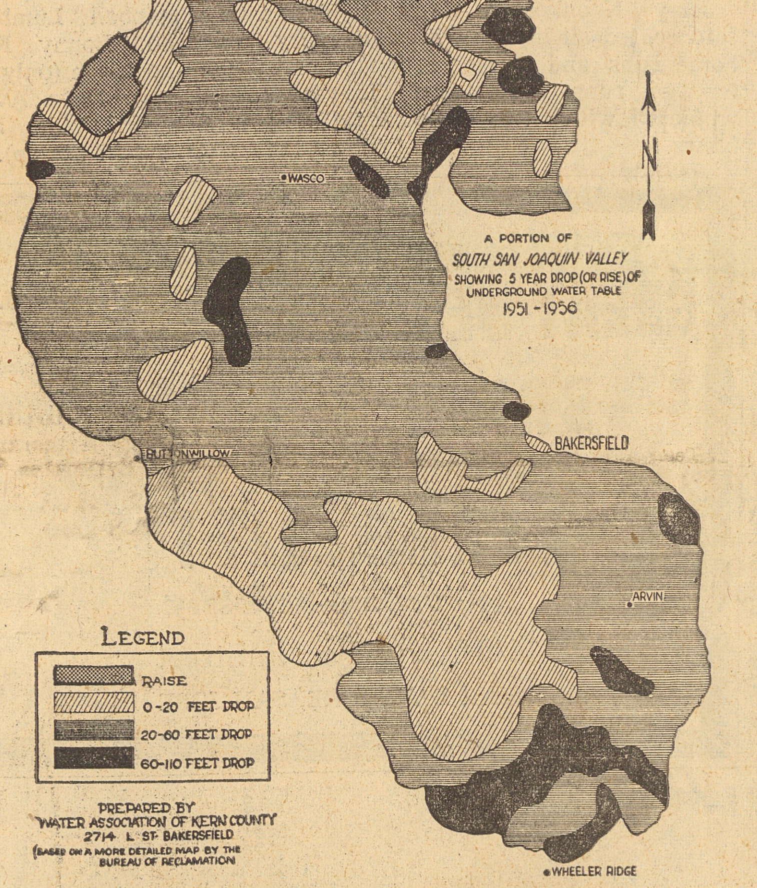
In another San Diego outbreak, 78 of the 130 crew members of the USS Washburn developed an illness within three or four days. The ship entered the San Diego harbor June 11 after a 10-day training cruise.

An increase of illness resembling influenza was reported at Fort Ord Army base in Monteray county, beginning June 17. At least 245 cases occurred, with 39 cases in a single day. Over the past weekend, there was a reappearance of the illness, with another 130 men being admitted to the sick list.

About 38 out of a group of 75 Marines at the Mare Island Naval Yard in Solano county developed acute febrile respiratory illness earlier in June, with an additional 50 being treated as outpatients.

The Department reported quite a number of cases of acute respiratory illness in summer camps in California, as well as 36 boys out of a group of 53, between ages 15 and 16, at the Log Cabin Ranch, a San Francisco juvenile court facility near Redwood City.

Map Shows Urgent Water Need



Unless more water comes soon to Southern San Joaquin Valley much fertile land will return to desert, say experts. In Kern County (shown above) pumps lift water as much as 600 feet, and the water table in some parts has dropped as much as 110 feet in five years. Citizens there look toward early construction of the State Feather River Project to bring water needed to preserve Kern's economy created by its $233 million annual farm output.

REPRESENTATIVE IN CONGRESS
TENTH DISTRICT, CALIFORNIA

Veteran campaigners for public office have gained the reputation for "crawfishing" a bit when proven wrong. But here is one who is going out tonight to order a king sized portion of roast crow and what is more he's going to eat it!

For more than five years I have poked fun at what seemed unnecessary talkathons in the greatest deliberative body of the world, the United States Senate. I have always thought that the House of Representatives with its rigid limitations on the length of debate was much the more efficient of the two bodies. It has always seemed that the Senate took twice as long to do its job and rarely brought out a point that the House had not adequately considered. The recent "prolonged educational campaign" (a fancy name for a fillibuser) in the Senate over the Civil Rights bill has shown me where I was wrong in at least one instance.

In the House debate over the so-called "jury trial amendment" to the Civil Rights bill it appeared that nothing new in the field of jurisprudence would result from defeat of the amendment. As I stated in this column several weeks ago it has always been traditional in this country that when a man is violating the law, and the court orders him to comply with the law, he may be imprisoned without a jury trial, until he does comply with the law. In these cases of civil contempt of court he may purge himself of his wrong and be released. But in cases of criminal contempt where the damage done is irreparable a man may be imprisoned for a definite period of time, after a jury trial. In the prolonged Senate debate on this issue, it has been clearly pointed out to the surprise of many House members that the Civil Rights bill would allow a man to be imprisoned for a definite period of time, without a jury rial, and he would have no opporunitly to purge himself of his wrong.

Most of the points I made a few weeks ago are still valid but I should not have been so definite in my conclusion that there was no instance where a jury trial was unfounded. If a public official defies a court order and refuses the right to vote to a qualified person then he should be imprisoned, without a jury trial, until he is willing to obey the law and then released. If, after the election, he has still refused to obey the law then he has caused a damage which cannot be repaired. Then, and only then should he be imprisoned for a definite sentence, afer a jury trial.

If the bill stands as written, he could be put in jail to serve a definite sentence, after a jury jury trial and no opportunity to purge himself of his wrong before the damage became peranent.

The Senate debate has proven this to me: That while there is still a chance that the offendor could comply with the law before permanent damage is done.

West Valley Beats Cambrian Park in Babe Ruth Contest

West Valley took over the lead in the Campbell-Los Gatos Babe Ruth League Saturday with a 4-0 win over first half champion Cambrian Park behind the two-hit hurling of Clark Ransome.

Earlier in the week West Valley had set the stage for the crucial game by beating Avila's Market, 7-6, behind 13-year-old Mike Hawkes.

Action moves to McKelvey Park in Mountain View tomorrow night with the local all-star squad taking on the Sunnyvale all-stars at 6 p.m. in the first game of the Mountain View area Babe Ruth playoffs. Winner of the tourney moves to Stanford for the Bay Area championships July 26 and 27.

Ransome had little trouble with Cambrian Park Saturday as he fanned 12 and walked only one. Cambrian's ace, John Ezzie, whiffed six and passed five in losing.

Terry Leonard led the winners at the plate with three hits while driving in a run.

West Valley scored all its runs in the third inning, two coming on an error by third sacker David Hill.

Mike Hawkes pitched West Valley to its win over Avila's giving up eight hits and going the distance. Clark Ransome led the hitters with three safeties including a triple. Ransome leads the league in batting with a .455 average.

In other games during the week, Cambrian defeated Burbank Lions, 10-0, behind Doug Kersey and Avila's won over Burbank, 12-11.

Local Teams Lose In District Tourney

The first two were no-hit, no-run games with Sisemore Construction Construction, also of the local league, being one of the victims. The Welding team scored all of its runs in the first inning off Ron Hindley. Towne Pride got three hits.

Earlier, Towne Pride knocked Sisemore out of the tournament with a 1-0 win.

"7 minutes in the cab...saves my wife hours of housework"

S.P. Locomotive Engineer, Joe DiSalvo of San Jose, earns enough in 7 minutes to provide his family with 24 hours of gas and electricity

"Never realized gas and electricity were so cheap till I figured it out this way," says Mr. DiSalvo. "Just 7 minutes' pay takes care of 24 hours of heat and lights and gives Mrs. DiSalvo the use of 34 gas and electric appliances."

You can afford to let gas and electricity do more of your housework. For even though the cost of living has doubled in the last 20 years, P. G. & E. charges about ⅓ less for a unit of gas and electricity than it did in 1936. (See chart)

Basic Food Costs Vary Throughout State Almost as Much as Climate

(Capitol News Service)

Basic food costs throughout California show as wide a variance as the state's industry, climate, agriculture or recreation resources.

A pound of coffee sells for 84 cents in Orange county but for $1.03 in Trinity or King's counties. A pound of rolled oats goes for 17.4 cents in Los Angeles but 20.1 cents in Kings county. While a pound of carrots brings 13.7 cents in Humboldt county, they're only 6.2 cents in San Francisco.

The budget-conscious San Diego county housewife can purchase sardines for 19.5 cents a can; in Marin county they cost 29.9 cents.

Cheapest in L.A.

Overall, Los Angeles county, the most populous, is the cheapest for food. Sierra is the highest, followed closely by Mono and Alpine.

These facts have been brought out in a study by the state Department of Social Welfare, in cooperation with the county welfare organizations. They'll be used in apportioning benefits under the Aid to Needy Children program.

In the study, the Department was coordinated by Mrs. Helen I. Stebbins. The cost for 16 basic food items was found for each county—rolled oats, macaroni, margarine, cottage cheese, eggs, milk, lard, prunes, peanut butter, sardines, coffee, hamburger, oranges, carrots, onions and celery. Altogether, the Department considers 62 items of food in the ANC program, but felt these 16 were the most basic.

This County: $38.72.

The survey showed these 16 items could be purchased for one adult and 2½ children for a month in Los Angeles county for $36.02. In Sierra county the cost was $49.45. The cost in Santa Clara county was $38.72.

Mrs. Stebbins emphasized, of course, that this was not the entire allowance for food but only accounted for the 16 items for purposes of setting patterns. At present, the state is divided into six basic areas for food prices. Each county in each area is selected as the most representative, and families under the ANC program in the area receive the amount determined for that particular county.

Santa Clara county, for instance, although its monthly family cost for the 16 items is $38.72 receives the amount such items cost in the base county, Shasta, or $41.54.

16 Basic Items

The relationship between the cost of the 16 basic items and the cost of the whole food budbet for a month, or 62 items, is shown as follows. Los Angeles county, with a $36.02 cost for the 16 items, has a cost of $68.68 for the entire food budget for a family of one adult and 2½ children. This shows a rise of 4.5 per cent over May, 1956.

The following breakdown shows the relationship in the cost of the individual 16 items in a particular county when compared with the lowest costs in Los Angeles and one of the higher, Lassen. All prices are for pounds, except milk, by the quart, cottage cheese, by the pint, eggs, by the dozen, and sardines, by the can.

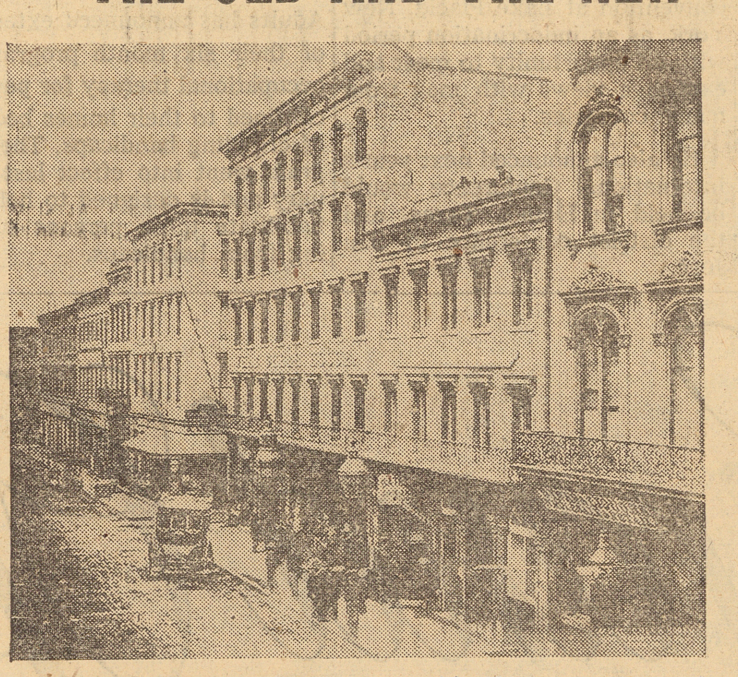
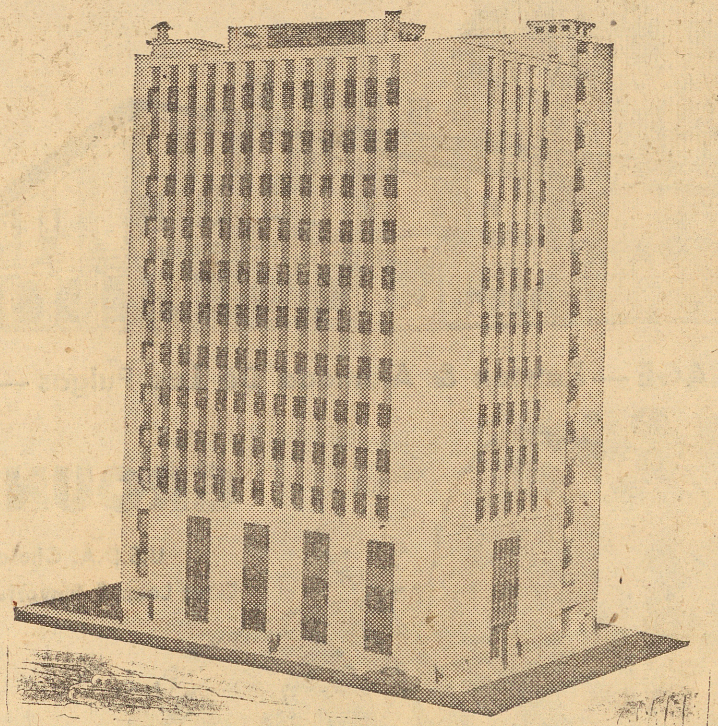
- THE OLD AND THE NEW -



The "What Cheer House" as it appeared in 1865 at the corner of Sacramento and Leidesdorff Streets in San Francisco. Photo is from the files of the California Historical Society, San Francisco.



This 12-story head office building is being erected by American Trust Company on the site of the old "What Cheer House."

CHP Says Drunk Drivers Menace Highway Travel

Persons who drive while under the influence of alcohol are definite menaces on the highways says the California Highway Patrol.

"Current records indicate a continuing increase in the number of persons who drive while under the influence of alcohol," declared Patrol Commissioner B. R. Caldwell. "In fact, drivers under the influence of alcohol are piling up a shameful record of death and injury on our streets and highways.

"Investigation shows these errant drivers fail to realize the hazards of such action, that one slight error in judgment may cause a regrettable accident," Caldwell stated. "A tight situation occurs requiring quick, positive action and a fast reaction to avoid trouble, but the drinking driver's mental and physical reaction time is slowed to the danger point.

"The result is a blinding crash and another traffic accident is charged to the drinking driver," he contined. "Safety, not sorrow, is possible through a sensible approach to our driving problems; an important factor is to avoid driving while influenced by intoxicants."

So this is HOMEMAKING

Winona Riley

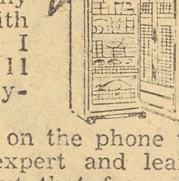
Usually I'm able to meet emergencies, but last night when Bill marched in unannounced with his old roommate, Joe, I was ready to desert him. I hadn't shopped in days, and dinner was to be of the can opener variety. All I could do was open another can and apologize.

Joe was understanding. He told me that if I had to tolerate last minute dinner guests, I deserved a food freezer.

"Sounds great," Bill agreed, "but we haven't the space."

"You could manage one like ours," Joe insisted. "It's an RCA Whirlpool upright model. Really compact, but what a lot of food it holds! The door alone is almost a pantry."

Bill looked wary, but I was ready to hear more.



"Look," Joe advised, "I'm no expert in the food department. Why not talk with my wife? I should call home, anyway."

So I got on the phone with the food expert and learned plenty about that freezer.

I heard about the first-in, first-out can dispensers and adjustable shelves in the door. A gate arrangement holds packages neatly in place, and a fan in the door keeps them really cold.

Roll-out baskets store bulky packages, I was told, and four primary freezing surfaces make short work of freezing fresh foods. All this in a trim cabinet that reflects the architectural styling of all home appliances manufactured by Whirlpool Corporation!

Well, that was all the sales talk I needed. I just told Bill how we need a freezer and I think I'll get one. Especially if he can depend on little me to produce on short notice a five-course dinner for an old school chum!

Returns After 20 Years

Campbell High's Dean of Girls Describes English Countryside

Editor's note: Miss Kathleen Bull, dean of girls at Campbell High, is visiting relatives in England this summer with her mother, Mrs. Ethel E. Bull, and has graciously consented to act as "foreign correspondent" for the Campbell Press while on her vacation trip. A native of England, this is her first return visit in 20 years. The following is her first report since sailing for England June 21.—V.F.

MISS KATHLEEN BULL
. . . visiting in England

By Kathleen Bull

We are staying in a seaside town called Broadstairs, which is in the southeast part of England. Right across the channel (23 miles) is France which we can see on a clear day.

Broadstairs might be compared to the town of Santa Cruz—lots of retired people and a holiday resort in the summer. Many people here make their money by renting rooms or boarding vitors. The main bay is called Viking Bay, after the Danes who "sacked" England in the 11th century. I think, for this reason, some people resent these reminders of the past, but of course the English and Danes are friends now.

From here we can see the lighthouse marking the beginning of the Goodwin Sands, 14 miles long and 7 miles wide. This is a treacherous place in the channel where many ships have foundered.

A neighboring town to Broadstairs is Ramsgate, another seaside town that figured prominently during the war when hundreds of skiffs, or anything that could be used afloat, were taken across the channel to rescue the men at Dunkirk.

We also have been to Dover which is about 28 miles from here and the point of land in England nearest the continent. I think it is about 18 miles across to France. Of course, this is also the harbor where you can get a ship over to France.

Dover was badly hit during the war. One gets used to seeing old, old, buildings, but here you see new buildings springing up between old ones and the contrast is very great indeed. I can only assume that the new buildings are being built in places which were bombed out.

Up Castle Hill, we went to visit Dover Castle built between 1168 and 1174 as part of the defenses erected by Henry II. Complete with moat, which has never had any water, however, and 17 foot thick walls, it again served the country during the last war when valuable stained glass windows were stored inside.

"It's lickin' good"—that's what every member of the family will say when you serve wonderful ice cream sodas as summer refreshers. So easy, too, when you have a selection of Canada Dry carbonated beverages chilling in the refrigerator, and packaged ice cream in the freezer. With this start there is no end to the variety of nourishing drinks you can concoct, and there's a flavor to please the taste of everyone in the family. True-fruit cherry, orange, Hi-Spot lemon, root beer and ginger ale are among the most popular flavors. A tall glass of any one of them, with a scoop of vanilla ice cream added, makes a fine mixed soda. Don't stir vigorously or carbonation will be lost. It's as simple as that, and these homemade sodas are better than the mixes at the corner store because the carbonation lasts longer.

Sparkling Raspberry Soda

⅓ cup mashed, sweetened raspberries
¼ cup light cream
1 scoop vanilla ice cream
Canada Dry Ginger Ale

Mix raspberries and cream in tall glass. Add ice cream; fill glass with ginger ale. Stir gently to mix. Serves 1.

Roger Kennedys Celebrate Golden Wedding Date

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Kennedy of 80 S. Cypress Ave., recently celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary with a dinner party at the Marie Antoinette Inn, Menlo Park. Highlight of the evening was the cutting of their miniature Golden Wedding cake.

Although the Kennedys' anniversary date was June 3, the celebration was delayed until June 29 in order to include two children in school.

Attending the party with their families were Mr. and Mrs. Roger Kennedy, Jr., of Richland, Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Holmes of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. William Lott of Glendale; Mrs. E. W. Sievert of San Carlos; five grandchildren and one great-grandchild, making a total of four generations present. A sixth grandchild, A. S. Finnell of Richmond, Kentucky, was unable to attend.

Dave Brubeck's Jazz Quartet Slates Concert

A concert by the Dave Brubeck Jazz Quartet will be the next event in the current third annual Montalvo Summer Music Festival at 4 p.m. Sunday, July 21. Unlike other events in the series, this concert will be held at Los Gatos High School auditorium, which offers a larger seating capacity, not the Montalvo estate. Advance sales indicate a sellout.

Brubeck is one of the most famous and popular of the new school of young composer-performers interested in "serious" jazz as an authentic American art form.

Brubeck concerts are spontaneous, depending heavily on improvisation. There are no printed programs and the numbers are announced after they are played.

Tickets to the concert may be obtained in advance at the Porch Window and Stevens Music Center in Los Gatos; Saratoga Drug Store; or the Stevens or Ferguson music stores in San Jose. They will also be available at the high school box office at the time of performance.

Square Dancers Have Right Good Time at Hoedown

The shingles are still on the roof of Hamilton School after the highly successful "Hoedown" of last Saturday night. Over 200 square dancers turned out for the shindig hosted by the "Hayshakers" square dance club on its first anniversary and had themselves a right good time dancing to the calls of Lou Hughes and Johnny Barbour.

Credit for helping make the affair so successful goes to Rosemary Cook who took care of the decorations and the kitchen crew under the direction of Imogene Boggs.

After the dance was over, 40 "Hayshakers" became members of the exclusive "Knuckleheads" club by taking advantage of an old square dance tradition and dragging the caller of another dance group out of bed in the wee hours of the morning and making him call a dance for them.

Saturday night's, or rather Sunday morning's hapless victim who performed for the "Knuckleheads" was Ernie Trimpey of Los Altos who had just gone to bed at 2 a.m. after hours of calling a dance in a nearby town.

EDITORIAL

It's Really Worth the Effort

The Press feels that the City Council should be commended for drafting a budget which provides for the expansion of city services, additional personnel and increased salaries for the present city employees.

At the same time the City Fathers held the line on the present property tax front—and they even anticipate that the tax rate will be lowered from that of last year.

There are those who will argue that the "blood sweat and tears" that the Councilmen have expended in order to come up with a workable budget and a lower property tax rate was hardly worth it.

These same people will claim that the average citizen does not appreciate either the efforts of the Council or the money saved the taxpayer.

They will maintain further that regardless of the conscientious effort put forth by the City Fathers the City will probably take the blame for the over all increase in taxes that the average taxpayer will have to pay. Thus, they say, the efforts will not be appreciated, so why try.

We don't think that is quite fair. However, we must admit that we formerly were of that same opinion. But our thinking has changed since we have examined the budget.

Even if the City raised the tax rate to the legal limit ($1.00), it still would not raise enough money to make the many major improvements that are needed. To do these jobs it will take a civic improvement bond issue.

Thus, only enough money need be raised by property taxes to expand the present services and to run the City efficiently. The other improvements must come through the bond issue.

With that thought in mind, the Council worked to cut the property taxes while not curtailing the needed municipal services.

It was a tough job, but they did it. It speaks well for them.

We commend the Councilmen for their work.

It Fills a Need

Going full blast now is the summer recreational program of the Campbell Union High School District in which all the elementary districts of the high school district participate.

The program is one of the most extensive in operation in California today. This is the sixth year that the summer program has been in effect. Each year something new in the way of recreational activities has been added.

The combined facilities of the elementary school and the two high schools have been made available and thus it is possible to offer a comprehensive program.

We think it is an excellent idea to utilize the facilities of the schools. It would be shameful to see all those facilities idle for the summer months while the youngsters of the community would be forced to use make-shift apparatus.

In addition to the regular playground activities and the swimming program, craft work and music are offered on the educational front. The music activity will culminate with a public concert on August 15.

There are many people who claim that we are doing too much for the young people of today. They claim that there was no recreational program for them when they were growing up. They frown on these so-called "frills of modern-day education" and believe that the young people would be better off, if they were made to "shift for themselves."

Perhaps we are doing too much for the youngsters, but we also shudder to think of how crowded the streets of the town would be if these same youngsters were forced to "shift for themselves", as it were. and there was no planned summer program in which they could participate.

We are a firm believer in these recreational activities and hope that they will continue to expand so that all youngsters in the community will be able to take advantage of the activities.

It certainly fills a need.

For some time we have been aiming to mention the many interesting items that are included in the annual report of county agricultural commissioner for 1956.

Santa Clara County's highly diversified agricultural industry suffered a slight drop in income in 1956 compared to 1955 but still managed to ring up a total of $98,268,345, the second highest cash return on record.

We are particularly interested in the report because we never cease to wonder how the agricultural income of the county manages to stay at such a high level in the face of the inroads that new subdivisions have made into orchards and fields around here.

This was particularly brought home to us over the weekend when we took advantage of a friends offer and hauled home a winter's supply of wood for our fireplace.

We admit that it was slightly incongruous to be hauling and stacking firewood in the blazing July sun. But we will appreciate it come winter anyway.

The wood, by the way, was all cut up in fireplace size and represented a goodly number of prune trees that had been replaced by a house and yard.

But to get back to the ag report . . . .

—o—

The report explained that there was a record production of prunes in 1956, a large share of which was composed of low prices for small sizes which contributed to the income decline.

Mind you, it wasn't because of less acreage.

Prunes still led the way in the county dollar and cent wise with $14,535,000 from 84,450 tons of fruit. This compares to $17,819,000 the previous year for 68,500 tons.

How about that?

We won't go into too many details but it was interesting to note that the strawberry industry was the second on the list. Strawberries edged out apricots. They brought $13,516,748 to the county for 2,587 acres compared to $13,017,558 from 2,297 acres in 1955.

Income from apricots dropped during 1956 mainly because of the short crop which totaled only 61,115 tons, compared to 90,000 tons the previous year. Income was $8,763,160 in 1956 compared with $10,000,000 the year before.

Next in line was the cherry income ($5,809,900) followed by pears with $5,208,230.

We are quite impressed with the array of fruits and vegetables that are raised commercially in the county.

Almost as much as we are with two other crops . . . subdivisions and kids.

—o—

A news item in The Press last week noted that a Cub Scout while swimming at the high school pool had his wallet "lifted". The theft was reported to the police. Later the wallet was found on the grammar school grounds but without the $15 that had been in it.

We were quite interested in the item. First, because we thought that 15 bucks was a lot of dough for a 10-year old to be carrying with him when he was going swimming and secondly, we were curious about what arrangements are made to handle valuables at the pool.

Bill Perry, pool director, informed us that the youngster had not taken advantage of the checking system in force at the pool. Valuables are put in individual manila envelopes and a receipt is given for the contents by an attendant. Bill reports that never has anything been lost, strayed or stolen when the system has been used.

Thefts from a locker room can never be condoned but we have to face facts. There will always be people, young or old, who will pick up stuff that doesn't belong to them, especially when they know about it. But knowing kids we have a sneaking hunch that the 10-year old probably publicly announced that he was really loaded. (And in our plane of living, $15 is a load.)

Heck, that's what our wife allows us for spending money for a whole week.

—o—

A couple of weeks ago we ran a close-up picture of the arsenal confiscated by local police from a 16-year old Campbell youth. The photo included a fierce-looking two-foot length of chain with a metal handle, a number of brass knuckles, several switch-blade knives and loaded pipes.

In this column we mentioned that we anticipated some criticism of our use of the picture in the paper. We understand there has been some.

We make no claims to infallibility on the subject of how to handle these teen-age hoodlums.

But until someone can give us some better reasons than so far have been offered, we will continue to let our conscience be our guide.

That allows for plenty of leeway.

—o—

We reckon we have been stopped our share of times by traffic cops for various and sundry traffic violations.

Our attitude when stopped has varied, depending on how righteous we felt at the time. We have found however, that it is generally better to agree with the cops rather than to disagree.

We have always been curious, however, just how these same traffic officers would react, if they were stopped by cops in other localities.

We have never had the pleasure of sitting in on such an occurrence but recently we have learned that it has happened around here a couple of times.

We are sorry to report that our details on the instances are mere hearsay and quite one-sided.

But, for the record, the offending cops seem to react no differently than you or we would under similar circumstances.

PASSPORTS

Some 559,000 passports were issued to Americans last year, reports the Travel Department of the California State Automobile Association. This was an increase of almost 6 per cent over 1955.

The Antioch Bridge has a horizontal clearance of 270 feet and, when opened, of 135 feet above mean high water.

Over the Years

By John D. Blaine

This column got into a warm argument in the Press office about the meaning of the word "service".

The position taken by Editor George was that service properly means something added to something, the service being what we don't pay for. In the heat of battle he looked up service in his big dictionary.

What he found I don't know. In my small dictionary I found 20 meanings.

As a matter of common sense—a very rare thing, as I showed in one of my early columns—as a matter of common sense "service" should be defined every time we use the word.

A friend of mine thought he'd be smart and ask an attorney a question over the phone. The question was answered. But my friend had in mind the wrong service meaning. By mail came a bill for five bucks.

Another friend employed an attorney to fight a drunk driving charge. My friend had in mind a moderate service meaning. The attorney thought of a higher meaning and sent a bill after success for $500. My friend upped his service estimate, having decided his reputation was worth it.

As applied to attorneys all service appears to mean something that costs money. I mean private service. As members of school boards and town councils attorneys work for free the same as anybody else.

Our town of Campbell extracts a lot of free services from certain attorneys.

When business people compete with free services it tends to run hog wild. Take the grocery business when I was in it myself. We took orders and delivered over 40 miles of country roads. We charged no more to deliver half way to Saratoga for credit than over the counter for cash.

Moreover, when we delivered to a country home we put the goods just where the lady said. Pig feed went here. Cow feed went there. Chicken feed and goat feed went to their respective places. The sack of flour went up into the attic, the sack of potatoes down into the cellar.

Surely our service for free was now fully rendered. Not so fast. In sweetest tones came to the ear: "And now will you please climb up and grease the windmill?" And no fooling, we did it.

Competition with this form of service lunacy came in the form of "cash-and-carry." It became a service to provide free parking space. It became a service to let you wait on yourself. It became a service to let you pay cash.

Elimination of old forms of service lunacy enabled stores to save you money. To attract business, however, the new stores added the lunacy of loss leaders. They are now trying to get together and stop this lunacy.

Our argument in the Press office began over bank service. To understand here we need a little background.

When the Bank of Campbell paid 16 per cent on the capital investment the bank service was at a minimum. It was a service to accept your money for deposit and pay you no interest. It was a service to loan to you at high interest.

It was not yet a style to do much paying by check. But to attract deposits the bank encouraged paying by check until the habit became unprofitable to the bank. Over the years a service charge was added in various forms.

We now have the "special" checking account that began at 10c a check. It was upped to 12c a check. It is now upped to 15c a check.

The old bank sold to Mercantile Trust Company for twice par. Interest on capital was thus cut in half. Mercantile Trust sold to American Trust, I heard, for three times the Bank of Campbell's original par.

For sake of illustration let's assume that I'm correct. If so, this fact partly explains why American Trust took our bank away from us. American Trust had paid so much for our bank that it was no longer profitable.

Just when and how long we lacked a bank I've forgotten. To be without this service was certainly a headache and expensive in loss of time.

To get our bank back our business men tried to show that it would be profitable. It's common sense to keep our bank profitable. That is why I favor all sorts of service charges.

Our poor bank! We might yet have to take up an annual collection for it. If so, I'll gladly contribute a buck. The only thing I hope for free is a smile. I'll accept that. It doesn't cost the bank anything.

Citizens Must Share Job

Campbell Council Member Outlines Responsibilities of City Legislators

By Myron L. Fairchild

Councilman, City of Campbell

As the legislative and policy making body of your City government, your City Council must in every instance, be alert to the full scope of its responsibilities. Bear in mind that your Council members are bound by the self same oath of office as is the President of the United States.—They aretruly your representatives.

One of the fundamental responsibilities of your City Council is that it must always work for the benefit and welfare of the greatest number and, at the same time, strive o protect the rights of the few.

It is a sad commentary that so many of the endeavors to make life better for the majority turn out to be costly, or inconvenient, or disturbing to some. Every zoning ordinance adopted prevents some one from conducting his affairs as he perhaps otherwise would.

When a traffic problem is corrected by widening a street, some will find themselves with smaller yards and less privacy. Every time a majority votes in favor of a city park, a children's playground, a new fire house or any other improvement, at least a few will say that they are forced to pay for something from which they derive no benefit or that they cannot afford.

The Council also has the responsibility for finding out for the people of Campbell what is needed, how the needs can be met, what can be afforded and to help the voters become so well informed that they naturally support what is best.

Of course, there will never be a time when all the voters of a community will agree on what is best and there will be many times when all the members of the Council will not agree. However, agreement for its own sake is not the aim—your Council's pledge to you is to maintain an open mind until all the facts are avaliable and then to exercise the best judgment of which we are individually and collectively capable with the determination that, not who is right but what is right shall be the final goal. We ask that you view our local situation in the same way.

The Council must understand the local circumstances as they are today and attempt to forsee the circumstances which will probably prevail a year, or 5 or 10 or 20 years from today, and endeavor to effect the progressive steps which will, in its judgment, make for the greatest good for the greatest number.

It goes without saying, that nothing can ever be done until someone decides what shall be done. For the City, the Council must make the decision. Unfortunately, the base upon which many decisions must rest is that every dollar used for whatever purpose or function must directly or indirectly be taken from the people.

There are times when present circumstances over which we have no control are forced upon our consideration. You and all of us know that, along with every City in California, Campbell has growing pains. A great deal of the pressure upon the Council results from our being in the center of an area of above average growth.

Trying to keep pace with that kind of growth is just too big a job for the City Council, the Chamber of Commerce or any other single body, organization or group. That job must be shared by every organization and every individual business man and citizen of Campbell if it is to be accomplished.

Your Council willingly and earnestly accepts the trust you have placed in its hands, a trust so perfectly defined by Edmund Burke for the Electors of Bristol in 1774 when he said:

"Certainly, Gentlemen, it ought to be the happiness and glory of a representative to live in the strictest union, the closest correspondence, and the most unreserved communication wit' his constituents. But his unb ased opinion, his mature judgment, his enlightened conscience, he ought not to sacrifice to you, to any man, or to any set of men living. Your representative owes you not his industry only, but his judgment, and he betrays instead of serves you, if he sacrifices it to your opinion."

You will agree that no other attitude can be reconciled with our democratic concept of good government.

PLANNING ON PLANTING?

GARDENER'S CHECK LIST

By The California Association of Nurserymen

REMINDERS

1. Use a root irrigator or bore holes eighteen inches deep around your trees so irrigation water can penetrate deeply.
2. Your nurseryman has many fine plants in containers, ready to bloom or already blooming. Use these to brighten areas where other plants have finished blooming.
3. Plant seeds of perennials now, if you want them to bloom next year.
4. Container grown shade trees can be planted now.
5. Visit flower shows and your County Fair for ideas for your garden.

Bougainvillea

Brilliant coloring and rapid growth are the two best recommendations for planting an evergreen Bougainvillea vine in your garden or next to your house, says the California Association of Nurserymen.

A strong, twining climber, the Bougainvillea has medium green leaves with insignificant flowers set in the middle of three bracts or outer petals. From these bracts, the Boungainvillea gets its brilliant coloring of rich red, purple or orange which literally blanket the vine from tip to trunk. In Southern California the Bougainvillea begins showing its brilliance in late spring and by the height of summer time it is blooming profusely in every area in which it thrives.

Because bright sun is the best friend of this evergreen vine, it is an outstanding plant for Southern California but it can, of course, be successfully grown in other parts of the state. If you garden where winter temperatures get quite cold, plant your Bougainvillea in a container and move it to a protected spot when cold weather arrives. Another suggestion is to plant the vine against a warm wall or in a corner to give it the heat it needs. Wherever planted, always keep in mind the profuse rich and brilliant coloring of the Boungainvillea and be sure not to plant near other shrubs which will suffer or detract from this beauty.

In addition to the vine form, which grows to 20 feet, the Bougainvillea is also available as a compact and bushy shrub. The shrub form is newly introduced and is named Temple Fire or Red Bush Boungainvillea. Its flower bracts are deep red and the plant can be used in single plantings or combined to form a hedge or shrub border.

Among the most popular varieties in the vine form of Bougainvillea are Barbara Karst, which has brilliant red flowers borne on the plant at an early age and Orange King, which features bronze-gold bracts on graceful sprays. Other varieties are Bougainvillea brasiliensis (or spectabilis) with purple bracts; Convent, with enormous purple bracts for several months each year and California Gold, with long-blooming golden bracts. Still another, Rose Queen, blooms in delicate rose-carmine bracts most of the year growing rapidly while requiring little care. Scarlet O'Hara, also known as San Diego, is perhaps the most vigorous and fast growing of all Bougainvillea and it features bright red bracts on pendulous sprays.

A recent introduction in the vine form, Texas Dawn has rose colored bracts suspended from long, arching sprays. Texas Dawn is outstanding for its color, fast growth and its ability to maintain symmetry. It demands little care.

Bougainvillea can be successfully grown in most parts of California if planted where it will get full sun and fed generously. Its color show is well worth any extra effort it may require for the sight of the brilliant orange or crimson covered vine against trellis, a fence or your house can scarcely be matched by any other flowering vine.

Dependable Daisies

Perhaps the very ease with which the simple and unassuming Daisy is grown prevents it from receiving the praise due it, however, few flowers can boast its popularity as a cut flower or its effectiveness when used in this fashion.

Recent improvements made in Daisy strains, which include both annuals and perennials, have produced a variety of new forms to suit every gardener's taste. The recent Shasta introduction Jersey Cream, for instance, brings to the garden beautiful, double, four inch flowers with strong stems, vigorous growth, great disease resistance and early, long-lasting blooms. Mellisa, a semi-spider type from England, has a good stem and v igorous, hardy qualities of growth. Its flowers keep well. Snow Queen, introduced last year, is excellent for garden use, bearing double, five inch flowers on a compact plant. It comes into bloom in warm winter spots in mid-December. The Award of Merit Winner in England, T. E. Killen features six-inch flowers of anemone type. Its cut flowers are very long-lasting.

Some of the "old-timer" Shasta daisies you will find blooming in your local nursery are: Esther Reed, Chiffon, Marconi and Majestic. These are all white in varied flower forms.

Michaelmas Daisies, or Hardy Asters as they are also called, include many varieties with attractive colors and bloom shapes that appear in the garden after many perennials have ceased flowering. Michaelmas Daisises include the blue Aster Frikartii and other varieties that bloom in pink, blue, white, crimson and violet.

Other Daisy species that give dependable garden and cut flowers are the Transvaal or Gerbera hybrids with yellow, cream, pink, rose, orange and red flowers; the Marguerite, which grows bushy with yellow, golden or white flowers; and the Northland Daisy or Chrysanthemum Articum, blooming in shell pink, soft yellow, rose pink and buff yellow.

General cultural requirements of Daisises are full sun in coastal areas and filtered sun or some shade in the interior valleys. Daisies will do well in most types of soil. Shastas, however, do best in deeply dug soil that is enriched with a compost, well rotted manure or a mild commercial fertilizer. Water well when drainage is good but avoid overwatering. Keep old leaves cleaned out around plants so that slugs and snails won't congregate.

Pyracanthas

If a popularity poll were taken to determine the most popular berry shrub among California gardeners, the Pyracantha would win hands—or in this case branches—down. And with good reason! This family of evergreen shrubs offers a wide selection of shrub types, leaf patterns and berry colors . . . wide enough to suit every gardener's taste.

The hardiest Pyracantha or Firethorn species is coccinea which includes the favorite lalandii with orange berries; Government Red with red berries, and pauciflora, low growing and able to stand extreme weather conditions. A thornless variety of lalandii has also been developed.

Christmas berries are produced on Graber's Firethorn (P. crenatoserrata graberi). Santa Cruz is another crenato-serrata variety and is valued for its prostrate growth and large red autumn berries that last well into the winter.

Many more horticultural varieties have been developed and they are also outstanding lawn and garden plants. Rosedale features sprays of white spring flowers, dark red berries in fall and winter and dark green foliage. This Pyracantha can be grown espaliered or in groups to form a hedge or shrub border. Pyracantha Stribling is a seedling sport that grows to 15 feet and spreads to 12 feet if not controlled by pruning. Its branches are pendulous and clusters of berries cover the length of the branches.

Pyracanthas need no special care and will get along by themselves quite well much of the time, says the California Association of Nurserymen. They should be planted in full sun. Prune by pinching to direct the plant's growth. When you cut branches that have berried, cut back carefully; remember that next year's berries are borne on this years wood.

Low-growing Pyracanthas can be used as ground covers and hillside plants. Tall varieties make good hedges; espalier types can be trained against a wall or confined in a pot and trained against a trellis.

Highway Users Taxes in State Top $26 Million

Robert C. Kirkwood, State Controller, has announced that highway users taxes totaling $26,657,337, were apportioned last month for California counties, cities, and the State Highway Fund for expenditure on highways.

A breakdown on distribution of the taxes, which were received in May, shows that $6,149,907 went to the counties in June. The State Highway Fund was apportioned $2,486,316 for distribution to cities, as well as a total of $18,021,114 for expenditure on State highways.

Santa Clara County's share amounted to $177,152.56, Kirkwood said.

The total approtionment for June shows a decrease of approximately $60 million or 69 percent, from the amount distributed in May. The large difference results from a $65 million transfer from motor vehicle registration fees made to the State Highway Fund during April, 1957.

The latest distribution reflects an increase of $1,127,595, or 4.42 percent over the corresponding period a year ago, Kirkwood said.

Vacation Driving Can Be Safe If Rules Observed

Vacation driving can be safe through the observance of a few simple rules says the California Highway Patrol.

"Vacation trips by motor vehicle can be either enjoyable or irritating in accordance with the driving habits," declared Patrol Commissioner B. R. Caldwell. "Lack of planning, last minute departures, long tedious stretches of driving without rest and trying to squeeze in a few extra miles of driving each day are all conducive of irritation and accident potential.

"The better and more enjoyable way is to plan your trip allowing sufficient time each day to stop and relax occasionally," Caldwell stated. "Eat a substantial breakfast, but avoid heavy meals during the day to eliminate the possibility of becoming logy or sleepy.

"If you leave the state, it is well to review the traffic rules and regulations of other states you plan to pass through," he continued. "And keep in mind always that traffic laws are safety rules worthy of your full consideration no matter where you drive."
